خلاصه مقاله:

In monotheistic cosmology, the world accommodates general characteristics that distinguish it from the other cosmologies. Explaining some of these features and their respective implications on the political lifestyle is of particular necessity and importance. The present paper strives to answer the question of whether there exists a logical relation between cosmology and lifestyle or not. Further, do different worldviews [and cosmologies] lead to different lifestyles in politics? Research on the advanced conclusions and outputs of this issue is elaborated hereunder.
