

عنوان مقاله:

Taking the Enemy as Medicine: Dialectic and Therapy in the Work of Two Early Indian Doxographers

محل انتشار:

دوفصلنامه پرسشهای دینی، دوره 4، شماره 7 (سال: 1394)

تعداد صفحات اصل مقاله: 14

نویسنده:

Karl-Stéphan Bouthillette - Munich Graduate School for Ancient Studies, Institut für Indologie und Tibetologie, Ludwig-Maximilians Universität

خلاصه مقاله:

This article discusses the function of dialectic in religious history, focusing on the works of two major sixth century Indian intellectuals and doxographers Bhāviveka and Haribhadra Sūri, who belonged to the competing Madhyamaka Buddhist and Jaina traditions respectively. The article studies how these two figures used medical metaphors for their dialectic purposes.

کلمات کلیدی:

doxography, dialectic, Bhāviveka, Haribhadra Sūri

لینک ثابت مقاله در پایگاه سیویلیکا:

<https://civilica.com/doc/1398004>

