خلاصه مقاله:

We are used to not expecting anything else from the park except for a few benches with a water fountain and a new sports equipment. It is rare that we decide to go to the park on our alley or street to relieve our boredom in one boring evening because the designed parks mostly have few amenities. Also, there is no ideal playground for children and it makes them bored. Just as a middle-aged or old person needs a park to have fun, surely a child also seeks to meet his needs by going to the park, although the needs are different from the needs of the elderly. Regarding children's playgrounds, although the current equipment is still satisfactory for many children, but surely both city officials and families know that new ideas can be brought to the playground and even foreign successful ideas can be used to develop children's thinking and make children enjoy the game more. according to national needs and beliefs and used .them to improve these space
