

عنوان مقاله:

?Rights Language in the Sustainable Development Agenda : Has Right to Health Discourse and Norms Shaped Health Goals

محل انتشار:

مجله بین المللی سیاست و مدیریت بهداشت, دوره 4, شماره 12 (سال: 1394)

تعداد صفحات اصل مقاله: 6

نویسندگان:

Lisa Forman - Dalla Lana School of Public Health, University of Toronto, Toronto, ON, Canada

Gorik Ooms - Department of Public Health, Institute of Tropical Medicine, Antwerp, Belgium

Claire Brolan - School of Public Health, University of Queensland, Brisbane, QLD, Australia

خلاصه مقاله:

While the right to health is increasingly referenced in Sustainable Development Goal (SDG) discussions, its contribution to global health and development remains subject to considerable debate. This hypothesis explores the potential influence of the right to health on the formulation of health goals in 4 major SDG reports. We analyse these reports through a social constructivist lens which views the use of rights rhetoric as an important indicator of the extent to which a norm is being adopted and/or internalized. Our analysis seeks to assess the influence of this language on goals chosen, and to consider accordingly the potential for rights discourse to promote more equitable global health policy in the future.

کلمات کلیدی:

(Right to Health, Global Health Policy, Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs

لینک ثابت مقاله در پایگاه سیویلیکا:

<https://civilica.com/doc/2045634>

