خلاصه مقاله:

There is always a challenge between architecture and philosophy. During the history philosophy has always impressed the architecture and even the architects . The impact of Jacques Derrida who was known as the philosopher of the era on architectural writing and theory was immense . He was known as well-known public figure having influence as a philosopher on many fields such as art and architecture. Peter Eisenman as a philosopher architect has impressed by Derrida's way of thinking especially in deconstruction ,so Derrida's imprint can obviously be seen in background of Eisenman's idea . As a case study Parc De La Villette, One of Bernard Tschumi's Deconstruction architecture with Derrida and Eisenman's Philosophy and theory will be discussed to introduce different challenges regarding this topic .
