خلاصه مقاله:

Some facts are getting difficult due to the changes in urbanization and urban planning fundamentals in new towns, especially in major cities ,some of which include finding the reason of rides' traffic dominance, separation of working and leisure time, the separation from nature, making balance in human-environment relations, and removing environmental-mental needs. Planning for open space development, environmental beautification and arranging leisure activities are issues included in passing leisure time. According to some prospective sociologists, significance of leisure in new urban society is to the extent that it is remembered as the fourth part of human activity after agriculture, industry and services, and it is known as the characteristic of coming communities. Among many facilities that provide a bed required for human leisure is cinema. It is the place that becomes a good place for human assembly and formation of human relations by providing tools to create architectural spaces for recreation, providing art and many other services. So in this article, the importance of space development and architectural design of movies has been discussed as an important place for leisure and providing other social and economic services
