خلاصه مقاله:

Improving health and well-being of people, especially from socially marginalized communities, have been my personal as well as professional commitment as a physician and public health practitioner. My prime endeavors to approach this goal has been the IDPD, Polyclinic and CHARM. The Polyclinic was founded in 1985 by a group of doctors committed to address the health needs of the marginalized people of Bihar. As one of the two resident doctors and founding members, I have been treating patients at a nominal charge at the Polyclinic since mid-1980s. As the Executive Director and founder of CHARM, I have been engaged in capacitating and facilitating marginalized communities to ensure their participation in health care system, its planning and monitoring since 1999. I have also been actively engaged as a member of International Campaign to Abolish Nuclear Weapons (Nobel Peace Prize recipient for 2017); International Physicians for Prevention of Nuclear War (Nobel Peace Prize recipient for 1985); and the State (Convener of the Jan Swasthya Abhiyan (affiliated to the Public Health Movement
