خلاصه مقاله:

The paper discusses the concept of speaking skills as a means of effective communication and some factors which influence Iranian EFL students' oral fluency, and also helps design some effective ways to provide every chance to force students to speak English. We try to analyze the difficulties in doing listening and speaking exercises focusing on Real Listening & Speaking textbook. Real Listening & Speaking presents different kinds of listening and speaking tasks in order to improve two skills (listening and speaking). Moreover, we discovered difficulties in speaking of undergraduate students that helped us to find the ways of improving students' abilities to listen to authentic materials and apply them in communication. Problems in speaking were taken from the results of questionnaire. Students' questionnaire determined various activities in practice. The result of our study showed that different creative activities in English classes motivate students to help develop speaking skills in the EFL English language classroom.
