

عنوان مقاله:

COMPARATIVE INVESTIGATION OF HOSTILITY AND PARANOID THINKING IN ADDICTED AND NONADDICTED PEOPLE

محل انتشار:

سیزدهمین کنگره بین المللی دانش اعتیاد (سال: ۱۳۹۸)

تعداد صفحات اصل مقاله: ۱

نویسندگان:

Alireza Homayouni - Assistance Professor of Department of Psychology, Bandargaz Branch, Islamic Azad University, Bandargaz, Iran

Ghazaleh Rouhani Makvandi - Deputy of Health of Babol University of Medical Sciences

Jamal Sadeghi - Assistance Professor of Department of Psychology, Babol Branch, Islamic Azad University, Babol, Iran

Mansour Balali - PhD student of Psychology, Babol Branch, Islamic Azad University, Babol, Iran

خلاصه مقاله:

Background and Aim : Addiction is a pervasive word and can be involve mixture of familial, medical, environmental, social, physiological and psychological aspects. Yet, psychological factors are very important and effective, but ambiguous, factors because impact on daily life of people. So, the study investigated hostility and paranoid thinking in addicted and nonaddicted people. Methods : The research method was causative - comparative. ۱۹۰ addicted people and ۱۹۰ nonaddicted people were selected and responded to Symptoms Check list (SCL۲۵, Short form). The data were analyzed with T independent test. Results : Findings showed that there are significant differences between variables in two groups. Addicted people got higher and significant scores in hostility and paranoid thinking than nonaddicted people. Conclusion : With regards to findings, it seems that more attention to psychological disorders in addicted people is very important for increasing mental health and enhancing psychological tolerance of individuals toward the bad results of daily life events can result in the reduction of negative thinking, hostility and depression and finally preventing from tendency to abnormal behaviors specially .tendency to addiction

کلمات کلیدی:

hostility, paranoid thinking, addicted, nonaddicted, people

لینک ثابت مقاله در پایگاه سیویلیکا:

<https://civilica.com/doc/۹۷۵۰۵۷>